

ABSTRACT

In one embodiment, a fastener attachment tool includes an elongated shaft, the shaft comprising a tip that includes an opening that provides access to an elongated channel that is adapted to receive a stud to which a fastener is to be attached, the tip
5 further including a gap that is adapted to receive and retain a flexible fastener to be attached to the stud.